DANIELS FUND

2005 in Review

Message from OUR CHAIRMAN

Bill Daniels was a man who cared greatly for his country, his community and the direction of society. His commitment to people, especially young people, is reflected in the foundation that bears his name, the Daniels Fund.

Guided by his vision, the Daniels Fund is transforming thousands of lives through scholarships to deserving students and grants to outstanding nonprofits in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, as well as national programs. The Fund experienced a number of significant milestones and accomplishments during the year:

- In 2005, the Daniels Fund awarded $44.4 million in grants and scholarships, and surpassed $141 million in cumulative giving since Bill passed away in the year 2000.
- In April, Hank Brown was named president of the University of Colorado. Hank joined the Daniels Fund as president and CEO on July 1, 2002. He was an effective leader and guided our grants and scholarship programs through a time of remarkable growth. We are honored that he continues to serve on the board of the Fund.
- In May, the Daniels Fund board unanimously approved Linda Childears as the Fund's new president and CEO. She had been a member of the board since it was created in 2000. She previously served as CEO of the Young Americans Bank from the time it was founded by Bill Daniels in 1987. Her leadership at the Fund would have delighted Bill.
- We welcomed three new board members during the year: Tom Marinkovich, former president and chief operating officer for Daniels & Associates; Steve Schuck, one of Bill's friends and business partners; and June Travis, a leader in the cable television industry who first met Bill in 1969.

The Daniels Fund board is comprised of individuals who knew Bill Daniels, share his values, and are committed to honoring his legacy. We are also proud of our associates at the Daniels Fund who are dedicated to honoring his legacy of "Making Life Better ... One Individual at a Time."

Sincerely,

John V. Saeman

Message from OUR PRESIDENT & CEO

Bill Daniels described America as the “greatest nation on earth, where boundless opportunities still exist for each and every one of us.” He established the Young Americans Bank to teach young people how to handle bank accounts and personal finance through hands-on experience so that they would appreciate and prosper in the free-market system.

It was my distinct pleasure to serve as president and CEO of Young Americans Bank from the time of its grand opening in 1987 until becoming president and CEO of Daniels Fund in July 2005. Bill visited the bank frequently to check on operations and offer suggestions for improving customer service. He was simply a remarkable man, and I miss him every day.

I was honored that Bill asked me to serve on the board of the Daniels Fund. In that capacity, I worked closely with Hank Brown during his years as president and CEO and not only admire him, but also consider him a close friend. Hank was a true and loyal friend to Bill Daniels, and he honored that friendship every day during his years of service to the Fund. The University of Colorado is fortunate to have found such an outstanding leader to serve as president, and I am delighted that Hank continues to serve on our board.

Throughout his life, Bill saw opportunity where others did not. This was as true in his approach to business as it was in his philanthropy. Because each of our board members knew Bill personally, they are dedicated to honoring his vision and are helping guide the Daniels Fund through its formative years.

I have been impressed this past year by the depth of talent and commitment exhibited by the dedicated associates at the Daniels Fund. These fine men and women also strive to ensure that this organization’s mission is fulfilled.

But perhaps most of all, I have been humbled by the triumphs of the more than 800 recipients of the Daniels Scholarship, as well as the dedicated service of the nonprofit organizations receiving grants from the Daniels Fund.

These pages display highlights from 2005 through photographs of the people and communities we serve. They are the shining stars and true heroes of the Daniels Fund. After learning more about them, I think you’ll know why our investment in them is so sound, and why Bill Daniels would be so proud of every single one of them.

Sincerely,

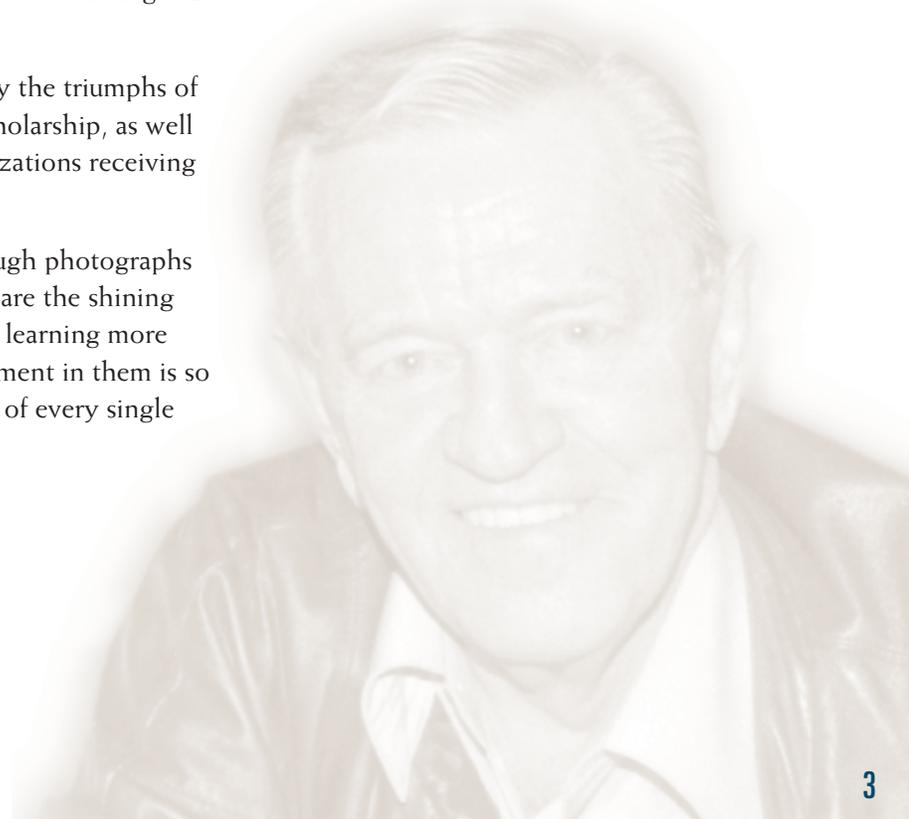

Linda Childears
President and CEO

Linda Childears, president and CEO of the Daniels Fund, with Hank Brown, who served as president and CEO before being named interim president of the University of Colorado. Hank continues to serve as a member of the board of directors of the Daniels Fund.

BILL DANIELS

To all who met him,
Bill Daniels
was larger than life.

He was a patriot, an entrepreneur and a philanthropist who was willing to take tremendous risks in business and people.

Bill loved and respected his parents, Bob and Adele Daniels. He had three siblings: Dorothy, who was developmentally disabled, Bobette, and Jack. His concern for the disabled is traced to his relationship with his sister Dorothy.

When he was nine, the Great Depression hit America and Bill went to work selling newspapers. In 1937, the family moved to Hobbs, New Mexico, where his father ran a statewide insurance business. Both Bill and his brother Jack attended the New Mexico Military Institute in nearby Roswell.

At the Institute, Bill's love for sports led to a connection with coach Babe Godfrey, who helped him channel his youthful aggression. Coach Godfrey taught him self-control, commitment, teamwork, and how to respect others and rely on them to get more done.

After graduation, Bill enrolled in the Navy and was commissioned as a naval aviator shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor. In World War II, Bill was a decorated aircraft carrier fighter pilot, taking part in the invasion of North Africa, and in the battle for Guadalcanal. After the war, Bill pioneered the cable television industry and eventually operated hundreds of cable TV systems across the country from the Denver headquarters of Daniels & Associates.

Bill loved sports and owned the American Basketball Association's Utah Stars, and the United States Football League's L.A. Express. He was part owner, along with Jerry Buss and Magic Johnson, of the world-champion L.A. Lakers. He also founded Prime Ticket, one of the first regional sports networks.

Bill loved America, and believed that each of us has a duty to offer help and hope to others. He gave many people second chances in life, but expected them to work hard, act with integrity, and to give back to the community.

Bill recognized the importance of education and with an entrepreneurial style, provided college scholarships to struggling students, at times identifying them through articles in the newspaper. To provide financial education to youth, he founded Young Americans Bank in 1987; and he worked with the University of Denver to incorporate ethics and integrity in the business school, named the Daniels College of Business in 1994.

Bill lived his values by demonstrating a deep personal concern for people in need. He established the Daniels Fund in 1997 to provide college scholarships to deserving students and grants to nonprofit organizations in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

Daniels Fund GRANTS PROGRAM

Daniels Fund SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

One of Bill Daniels' top priorities in establishing the Daniels Fund was to provide scholarships to individuals overlooked by other programs, but who have the potential to complete a college education if given a chance and the necessary support.

His goal was not simply to hand out as many scholarships as possible, but to identify and assist dedicated students willing to study hard, act in an ethical manner, and give back to their families and communities.

With more than 800 recipients of the Daniels Scholarship named since the beginning of the program in the year 2000, more than 750 students receiving Daniels Opportunity Scholarships, and four students receiving Daniels Graduate Scholarships, the Daniels Fund is fulfilling Bill Daniels' mission of "Making Life Better ... One Individual at a Time."

Daniels Scholarship

In April 2005, the largest-ever class of Daniels Scholars was announced—220 deserving students from Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

Community, business and education leaders in each state interviewed candidates to help select the new Daniels Scholars based on such qualities as financial need, academic promise, maturity, leadership and the potential to contribute to their communities.

In June 2005, the new class spent a week together on campus at the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs where they experienced campus life and learned about the responsibilities of being a Daniels Scholar. The "Scholars Heading Into the Future Together" event is designed to help them succeed in college.

Daniels Opportunity Scholarship

Leaders in higher education from across the region gathered in June at the Daniels Fund for the announcement of the Daniels Opportunity Scholarships, a $1.4 million partnership designed to get scholarship funding into the hands of non-traditional students unable to afford a college education.

Daniels Opportunity Scholarships were distributed to recipient colleges and universities in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming that converted the funding directly into scholarships to support non-traditional students from alternative schools; juvenile justice facilities; youth offender programs; and GED recipients.

Daniels Graduate Scholarship

Three Daniels Graduate Scholarships were awarded in 2005, allowing students to pursue advanced degrees at the University of Denver – Daniels College of Business; the University of Denver – Sturm College of Law; and the Department of History at the University of Northern Colorado.

This scholarship, awarded to graduated Daniels Scholars, covers the cost of tuition and required fees associated with the completion of a masters degree program. Recipients are required to maintain high academic performance, exhibit good conduct, and comply with Daniels Fund requirements.

In 2006, the Daniels Graduate Scholarship program will transition into a Dual-Degree Program designed to allow Daniels Scholars to pursue combined undergraduate and graduate degrees through programs offered at their respective institutions.
